FEATURED GUEST

An Evening with Kevin Hammer

President, United States Golf Association (USGA)

Guests will enjoy an intimate fireside chat with Kevin Hammer, exploring his perspective on the state of the game, the power of golf to build character in kids, and the importance of grassroots access to the sport.

A former first-team American Junior Golf Association All-American, Hammer played collegiately at the University of Florida and has qualified for multiple USGA championships.

On the USGA Executive Committee, Hammer has concentrated on expanding the game and fostering the next generation of American golfers at every level of the sport. Hammer led a future site strategy to bring all 15 USGA championships to the finest venues in the country, including the U.S. Open, U.S. Women's Open, Walker Cup, and Curtis Cup. He has also supported the U.S. National Development Program, which provides training, development, and funding for the country's most talented junior players.
